SOUTHERN KOREAN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

This project was a negotiated, ground-up 10,000 square-foot worship facility including sitework. The project included extensive site work, creation of an expansive sanctuary space, private offices and expansion space for a future kitchen and community areas. The sanctuary included 18-foot vaulted ceilings with moveable lighting. The narthex is flanked with 12-foot all-glass entries to allow full light into the gathering space. Custom cross insets in the brick are present on the north and south elevations of the facility. A porte-cochere with a steeple highlights the entrance and provides a focal point for the exterior. This project was completed within six months from receipt of permit.
